Beautiful Yuletide Concerts by Caelestra

Come experience Caelestra, and form a new holiday tradition!

This Christmas season, join Caelestra for an evening of beautiful Yuletide music both old and new. Featuring the heavenly voice of Lyric Soprano Lambroula Maria Pappas, the Celtic flute of Michelle Carlisle, and the songs of Fantasy-Folk Songwriter Britta Curkovic, Caelestra will take you on a journey back in time and around the globe.

With the five talented musicians performing in full medieval costume, rich vocal harmonies, and music played on flute, harp, guitars, hand drums & cello, this concert will keep you captivated from beginning to end.

Caelestra is a Canadian Medieval-Celtic folk band, founded by well known Celtic flautist and singer Michelle Carlisle, Vancouver songwriter, composer & Celtic harpist Britta Curkovic, and classically trained soprano Lambroula Pappas. Joining them are the passionate rhythms of percussionist Sacha Levin, and the gorgeous cello lines of their Spanish inspired cellist.

Caelestra will entertain you with jigs and reels, soul-stirring ballads, sprightly renaissance tunes, and traditional Celtic and Christmas music.

With three concert dates to choose from, (Friday November 27th in Port Moody, Saturday November 28th in Langley, and Sunday December 13th in New Westminster) and 50% of ticket sales going to charity, you'll want to make sure not to miss this musical holiday experience.

“Let Caelestra’s soaring Celtic melodies and tribal rhythms, wrap you in joyful tales of fantasy, and the hope of the festive season!”
